OCK

BROGGI 1818

Made in Italy

Our company has been producing unique and refined objects for almost 200 years: a story of prestige and great success. Our products have always contained the professionalism of master silversmiths of other times, well-finished products, from the classical and refined lines. A historical brand, while respecting the original guidelines, does not remain anchored to the memory of the magnificence of the past, professionalism and dedication do not change, but the constant attention and monitoring of new design trends contribute to give it a dynamic and constantly evolving image today. In addition to the decorations and reliefs of the most classical lines, historical collections that have left their mark on the tradition of international hotel; new lines from linear sections, smooth surfaces and forms of design arise that make the silversmith company a name of tradition always oriented to the future.

FIGGJO

Made in Norway

The first course is always the porcelain, whether it is served by a restaurant waiter or collected by the client himself in an institutional canteen.

As the porcelain is so vital in forming the first impression, we take great pride in manufacturing our products. Some of the products require as much as 52 interventions by human hands during the production process.

It is Figgjo's philosophy that the design of porcelain should add an extra dimension to the presentation of food. This is our inspiration when we design and develop new products.

Figgjo porcelain has an established reputation for its great functionality, durability and timeless design, for which we have received several awards.

While constantly developing our product range, we are focusing on creating design solutions which should inspire the user to think of porcelain as an important element in the dining experience.

Wabi Sabi

Made in Japan - Steelite International

The art of imperfection

Introducing the Wabi Sabi collection, the latest design by Rene Ozorio. Combining his simplistic porcelain shapes with reactive ceramic glazes, Rene Ozorio has developed a pattern of unparalleled raw beauty. Embodying an imperfect style and a natural semi matte finish, no two pieces of these double-fired, hand-glazed items are alike.

The Wabi Sabi range provides chefs with the ability to plate on organically inspired pieces. Available in colours Wheat, Slate, Indigo, Lichen and Galet.

William Edwards fine bone china

Made in UK

A passion for shape, design and traditional British craftsmanship are the inspirations behind every William Edwards piece of chinaware.

The company began when William returned to his hometown, Stoke on Trent, in 1993 after graduating from the Royal College of Art (RCA) to set up what is now known as William Edwards Ltd.

William and his team became well known for their skill in decorating fine ceramics for famous brands across the UK and around the world. When traditional manufacturing in the potteries went into decline, they saw another market for bespoke bone china, and diversified into not just designing but also making exclusive chinaware for the world's most discerning restaurants, hotels, clubs, retailers and royal palaces.

William's mission has always been to champion the craftsmanship and traditional skills found in Stoke-on-Trent, the heartland of England's ceramics industry since Josiah Wedgwood's heyday in the late 1700s.

Vista Alegre

Made in Portugal

The progressive growth of supply and demand in the hotel sector, as well as the consequent increase in the quality, have encouraged Vista Alegre to invest in this highly competitive segment, viewing tourism as an organic extension of its activity.

Always distinctive, Vista Alegre hotelware offers an excellent quality/price relation, making it an attractive choice in the medium, high and luxury segments. To this end, the brand's strong image has been closely followed by the needs of the industry, with a range of diversified ranges that combine contemporary design, technical innovation and the functional properties demanded by the best professionals, including dimension, volumetry, resistance, and ergonomics.

Revol

Made in France

“The charcoal line is the beginning. With it is born a natural roughness giving objects their narrative strength and their depth.”

Here Noé Duchaufour-Lawrance has produced a design combining Art and the technical orchestration of an industry working on behalf of the user. The “Caractère” collection reveals this meticulous work: the chosen thickness of the line and the rhythm provided by the height of the edges are the result of painstaking research and a guarantee of their elegance on the dining table. Invisible to the naked eye, the delicate lip gives the collection a lightness that adds poetry to the finished article.

Rona crystal glass

Made in Slovakia

RONA – a glassworks employing over 1000 people in the heart of the European Union, in the Slovak Republic. Its history reaches back to 1892 when it was established by the Schreiber family, once the most prominent glass producer in Europe, in a region where the production of glass traditionally flourished all the way back to the Bronze Age. This was due to a fortunate combination of a heavily forested landscape and the availability of silica sand and fireproof clay - the basic raw materials needed for early glass production. Only a few of the seventy glassworks originally existing in the area survive today but those who do now belong to the avant-garde of modern glass production.

The path of RONA has been paved with successes starting with a silver medal awarded to the glassworks' predecessor during the World Exhibition in Paris in 1867, or the very rarely awarded Honorary Diploma in the World Exhibition in Vienna, to RONA's presentation at the Expo exhibition in Shanghai in 2010, and attendance at the outstanding events of today's glass world, including major exhibitions around the globe.
